

A Personal Message from The Premier

On behalf of the Government of Ontario, I am delighted to extend warm greetings to everyone attending this year's Symposium for Directors and Superintendents of Education.

Quality education is a priority for this government. That is why our education funding will increase another $424 million in 2006–07 to a total of $17.3 billion. As a province, we have set some ambitious but realistic goals for our young people. I appreciate all that you, the province's leading educators, have done – and will continue to do – to make those goals a reality.

This symposium is a unique opportunity for Ontario's directors and superintendents to come together and discuss our public education system, and how it can be made even stronger. Working together, we will make sure that our investments and strategies deliver results for students across the province.

Thank you for all that you do to ensure that Ontario's public education system is second to none. I hope that the next two days will provide you all with a memorable and enriching experience.
